ADM is pleased to recognize the outstanding safety performance of our employees at the Naples grain handling and distribution facility. For more than 20 years, the Naples team has worked to keep themselves and their colleagues safe.

The eight-member team at this barge loading facility has gone nearly 15 years without an employee work-related safety incident. By working together, they also recently achieved a near-perfect score on their annual Safety Compliance Audit. "Our team keeps safety top-of-mind every day," said Doug Renoud, location manager. "Going 15 years without a recordable incident demonstrates that we can meet our Company goal of zero incidents. We are proof that zero is possible."

Congratulations to the Naples grain handling and distribution team for achieving and maintaining this exceptional level of safety.

ADM applauds the Naples Grain team: Carol Baker, Brian Clarke, Bonny Edlen, Tricia Galloway, Miranda Gerard, Raymond James, Doug Renoud, Joe Taylor and Nate Walkington.

LOCALLY:

ADM has operated a grain handling and distribution facility in Naples for nearly 25 years. The Naples facility originates and loads grain, including soybeans, corn and wheat. Workers unload trucks of grain from local farmers and elevators, and then transfer the grain onto barges for export from the Center Gulf.
