

DIRECT INTEGRATION

PAPERLESS BUSINESS DELIVERS MAXIMUM BENEFITS

Let ADM simplify your business processes with Electronic Data Interchange (EDI). EDI lets computers exchange information directly between systems, eliminating the need for paper, telephone, fax, and mail exchange.

When you enter into an EDI relationship with ADM, you'll save time and reduce administrative tasks by electronically sending and receiving a wide variety of documents and information. Our EDI professionals are willing to assist in the development of any EDI transactions that fit your business needs.

How Does It Work?

EDI uses industry-standard electronic file formats to pass information between companies, helping to eliminate errors and assumptions that occur when information is open to interpretation. Information is built, transmitted, received, and integrated electronically using pre-defined business rules. These automated processes reduce the chance for human error and speed processing.

Information is transmitted to and from ADM multiple times each day, ensuring a quick response and up-to-date information. We can accommodate a wide variety of data transmission methods, including VAN, FTP, and AS2.
